The Oakland Institute 2018 Program Report

As a leading independent think tank, the Oakland Institute (OI) is bringing fresh ideas and bold action to the most pressing social, economic, and environmental issues of our time.

Our rigorous research, coupled with communications and advocacy strategy, holds governments, international institutions, and corporations accountable for landgrabs and failed development schemes, while partnering with impacted communities to protect their land and livelihoods. We respond to requests from communities around the world who seek our support in their struggles.

A sampling of our accomplishments in 2018 includes:

Ethiopia:

Following release of political prisoners and significant reforms under the new leadership, we continue the focus on the plight of the Indigenous in Gambella and the Lower Omo Valley in the face of dams and sugarcane plantations. We advocate for inclusive development based on the recognition, respect, and protection of Indigenous rights.

To ensure structural changes necessary for a democratic and rights-respecting country, we are starting work with lawyers to use the new independence for public interest litigation.

Tanzania:

Our report, Losing the Serengeti, featured in 70+ publications on six continents in the first 10 days after its release (Guardian, New York Times, Le Monde, Washington Post, Time Magazine, and more) shattered the silence around the devastating impacts of foreign safari companies and "fortress conservation," involving the forced evictions of Maasai pastoralists in northern Tanzania. The international pressure created change. In September 2018, the East African Court of Justice granted an injunction forbidding the Tanzanian government from evicting, threatening, beating, or confiscating cattle from the Maasai. We continue work with the offices of several UN Special Rapporteurs to support the Maasai in reclaiming their rights to land, life, and livelihoods.

Uganda:

After exposing Carbon Colonialism of a Norway-based forestry and carbon credit company, Green Resources, our international campaign is holding the company's only carbon credit buyer - the Swedish Energy Agency (SEA) - accountable and targeting its funders.

Democratic Republic of Congo:

Our report The Bukanga Lonzo Debacle, exposing DRC government's plan to establish 22 agro-industrial parks on 1.5 million hectares, abetted by the World Bank and the African Development Bank, despite the failure of the pilot scheme, is garnering international attention. The exposé, covered by Le Monde, AFP, and Mongabay, among others, included a leaked audit report and evidence of numerous abuses associated with the scheme - land rights violations, human rights abuses, health hazards, embezzlement and corruption. In response, national farmer organizations and CSOs organized a press conference in Kinshasa and are working with us to challenge this failed development strategy.

Kenya:

Following the release of Losing the Serengeti, we were petitioned by herder communities from Northern Kenya to assist in their struggles against displacement/loss of livelihood under the LAPSSSET corridor - East Africa's largest infrastructure-based development project. IN 2018 we strengthened our partnership with the impacted communities and desk-research is underway .

Our Land Our Business Campaign:

Our briefs, press releases, and advocacy, reiterated the campaign's call for an end to both the Doing Business (DB) and Enabling the Business of Agriculture (EBA) programs, following the resignation of World Bank's chief economist after revealing the manipulation of DB rankings for political purposes, and France's withdrawal from the New Alliance for Food Security and Nutrition because the initiative, connected to the EBA, harms farmers and benefits corporations.

In the lead up to the World Bank's Annual Meetings in Bali, our research examining the massive social, economic, and environmental costs of Bank-guided development policies in Indonesia and India, became the mobilizing tool for civil society organizations. Bank's intent to showcase Indonesia as a success story was hijacked by our research demonstrating that the expansion of palm oil and mining operations has resulted in the grabbing of Indigenous land and massive environmental destruction. India report exposed how the trumpeted economic miracle is based on gross social, environmental, and economic consequences.

In advance of the 2019 EBA report, The Highest Bidder Takes It All, focused on the newest indicator on land. While the Bank claims that this indicator will bring equity around access to land, our analysis reveals the opposite and denounces an unprecedented push to facilitate private interests' access to the commons, by encouraging governments to systematize the sale of public land via auction to the highest bidder. Our report reached over 500,000 people in just three weeks, and is being used by CSOs and farmer organizations around the world, particularly in Africa - the primary target of the push to privatize customary land. Summaries of our report have been reprinted by SOS Faim's Defis Sud Magazine, the Bretton Woods Project, TruthOut, and Third World Network, amongst others.

Papua New Guinea:

Our exposé revealed an increase in the financial malpractices of the foreign logging and palm oil companies operating in the country, bringing renewed outrage. In response, Oro Province Governor Juffa brought the report to parliament demanding action on illegal logging and related corruption. The government requested assistance from the OECD's Tax Inspectors Without Borders program to address issues raised by our report around tax evasion by multinational companies.

Newsworthy Achievements:

After decades of abuse, our report Losing the Serengeti brought international attention to the plight of the Maasai in Tanzania. According to the impacted villagers, their struggles had never before garnered this kind of international attention - much needed as the country becomes increasingly repressive and authoritarian. Our advocacy helped ensure a victory in the East African Court of Justice in September 2018, and in January 2019, President Magufuli announced a halt of the planned eviction of hundreds of pastoralist villages. The success of our research and advocacy, and massive media up-take has resulted in a wave of additional communities reaching out to us for
